October is National Bully Prevention Awareness Month

Please take a few minutes to read about 10 ways to help Bully-Proof your child.

Teach and model the values you want your child to have, including kindness and respect for everyone.

Raise your child's self-esteem with frequent words of love and praise.

Boost your child's ability to be assertive by allowing him or her to solve day-to-day problems without your intervention.

Encourage positive friendships and involvement in clubs, sports and youth groups.

Instruct your child to stay in places where there is adult supervision. Never drop your child off or allow them to arrive at school before 8:30am (unless coming for breakfast at 8:10am). Adult supervision does not begin until 8:30.

Talk to your child about procedures for reporting bullying at school.

Calmly tell the bully to leave you alone and then walk away.

Tell the adult in charge, first.

Inform the teacher, principal or social worker if problems persist.

Use the bully reporting mailbox located inside the main doors

Empower your child to handle a situation.

Stand up straight, stay calm, do not give the bully a reaction, walk away and report the problem to the nearest adult.

Never tell your child to "fight back."

Help your child understand the definition of bullying. Bullying is repeated, intentional behavior meant to cause physical or emotional harm. Not every peer conflict is bullying.

Encourage your child to report any bullying that happens to another child.

Monitor your child's online activities (facebook, chat rooms). Talk to your child about making appropriate friend choices and "blocking" inappropriate ones.

Feel free to contact the school with any questions or concerns you may have about bullying.
